I closed the doors to my antique shop in 1997 and now that the house is sold, the inventory of over 700 quality items that have been in storage for almost 20 years must all go. From Primitive to Victorian to downright eclectic...there are too many items to list them all but here is a sampling of treasures you may find: White English Ironstone, china, pottery, crocks, stoneware jugs, Polish pottery; Sterling and silver plate; Hooked rugs, vintage Scandinavian rag rugs, braided rugs; Depression glass, amber crystal, chocolate molds, baskets; Quilts, overshot coverlet, pillows; Framed artwork & mirrors, and circus posters; Vintage watering cans, garden sprinklers, brass hose nozzles, flower frogs, benches (some in old paint), and architectural pieces; An iron & brass bed, old factory shoe drying racks, and an old carriage seat; An antique typewriter, "White" tiger oak treadle sewing machine, brass andirons, glass insulators; Old store advertising, tinware, wooden measures, gum ball machines; Cast iron toys; Glass oil lamps, Rayo lamps, and antique candle molds; Nature books, garden books, and an extensive collection of old (1800-1960's) cookbooks, First Editions; Primitive farm implements, tin smith tools, and other old tools; Some furniture pieces including a pair of Nichols & Stone Maple Windsor arm chairs, Pennsylvania House Cherry Windsor side chairs, an antique wooden baby cradle, wicker, an upholstered Victorian Settee, early 3 panel screen, cherry dresser, pine and oak side chairs, marble top Victorian tables, a Victrola and much, much more!
