New Digs, Dates And Days For The 43rd Annual Vermont ADA Show

Jermont

UCS

On Friday and Saturday, July 21 and 22, the 43rd Annual Vermont Antique Dealers Show will be returning, after a 25-year hiatus, to the Stratton Mountain Base Lodge in Stratton (Bondville), Vt. After a successful run for several years in Woodstock, the show committee opted for the more intimate space at Stratton. Low ceilings and walled booths create a room-like atmosphere for the 38 dealers on the main floor of the lodge. Stratton has become an all-season destination with concerts (the Preservation Hall Jazz Band will be playing Saturday night under the concert tent), shows, weddings and the village that has sprung up on the mountain with restaurants and retail shops, all in a lovely southern Vermont mountain setting.

The show will run one week earlier this year, moving it two weeks sooner than the New Hampshire Shows in August. We are also trying something different with the timing of the show. We will be open Friday, noon to 8 pm, and Saturday, 9 am to 2 pm. We are hoping the streamlined hours and intimate venue will result in higher sales for dealers and lower overhead for the organization. The Vermont ADA each year gives a portion of the show profits to area charities. Admission will again be $10 per person.

This years show roster includes four newcomers. Veteran dealers Mark, Sandy and Jennifer Keily from Ohio will bring the fine Americana for which they are well known. Also joining this year will be Trish Koptiuch of Osgood Hill Antiques, Essex, Vt. Trish always puts together a booth with a discerning eye. Sherry Cohen of Up Your Attic Antiques of Framingham, Mass., will head north for the first time with a lively selection and finally Stiles House

Antiques of Woodbury, Conn., will arrive with their Eighteenth Century fine goods. These newest entries join returning Vermonters John Bourne, Andy Gardiner, Mike Winslow, Norman Gronning, Rita Masso, Kyle Scanlon, Four Bears, Judd Gregory, Red Horse Antiques, Thomas/Bassett, the Noordsys, the Smarts, Brian Bittner, Mike and Lucinda Seward, Stone Block Antiques, Brookside Antiques, George Johnson and Back Door Antiques; and I will include Dover House as they now have a home in Grafton.

From Massachusetts, Donna Kmetz, Mario Pollo, Captains Quarters, West Pelham Antiques and Doug Ramsay will be returning, as well as veteran New Hampshire dealers Frandino Antique Oriental Rugs, Pat Reese/John Rice, Tommy Thompson and Pewter & Wood.

Rounding out the New England dealers will be Hanes & Ruskin and New England Home of Connecticut and the Rathbun Gallery of Rhode Island. And last but not least, New Yorkers the Ferriss's, the Sherwoods and Home Farm Antiques complete the roster. This small but diverse group promises a variety of high-quality fresh-to-the-market antiques in a wide range of categories from fine to folk, primitive to formal, decorative to discerning, something for everyone.

Head up to the Stratton Base Lodge up Stratton Access Road off Route 30 in Stratton (Bondville), Vt. For lodging information 1-800-Stratton, for general information, call Greg Hamilton 802-989-1158.
