This year Antiquariaat De Roo will exhibit for the second time at the New York Antiquarian Book Fair held from March 8-11 at the Park Armory Avenue.

In booth D24 they will exhibit a selection of their finest books and related items. Antiquariaat De Roo was established in 2004 and specializes in Bibles, (protestant) theology, history, church history and hand-colored works.

One of their highlights will be a pair of extremely rare Hondius globes published by Johannes Janssonius (1588-1664) at Amsterdam in 1623 and 1648. The globes were prepared by Jodocus Hondius the younger (1597-1651), published by Johannes Janssonius in cooperation with Abraham Goos (as engraver) and Adriaan Metius (as author of the celestial globe).

The pair includes a terrestrial and celestial globe with a diameter of 44 cm. (17 in.) each with 12 engraved gores (the terrestrial globe also with 2 engraved polar caps) over a plaster-covered core. Each globe is mounted in a new oak stand in 17th-century style with a facsimile paper horizon ring. Including the oak stand each globe has a height of 65 cm. (26 in.) and a width of 60 cm. (24 in.).

The terrestrial globe is a single unique example of the first state (1623), only 3 other variants are known of this rare first state, this being the fourth variant. The celestial globe in its second state (1648) is one of only 3 or 4 examples in this state. Together a spectacular and eye-catching set of these very rare globes. Currently this is the only set that is offered for sale worldwide, price: $750,000,- Naturally, more information is available on request.

De Roo will also bring a famous miniature book which held the record for the smallest printed book in the world until the year 1897. The little book is in Dutch and titled 'Bloem-Hofje', which can be translated as 'Little Flower Garden', it contains an anthology of Christian phrases by C. van Lange.

The binding measures 1,3 x 0,9 x 0,5 cm. (0.51 x 0.35 x 0.20 in.) Despite its size the work has a complete typesetting, the text is printed on double spreads on one side of the paper only and then stuck together to give the impression of normal leaves.

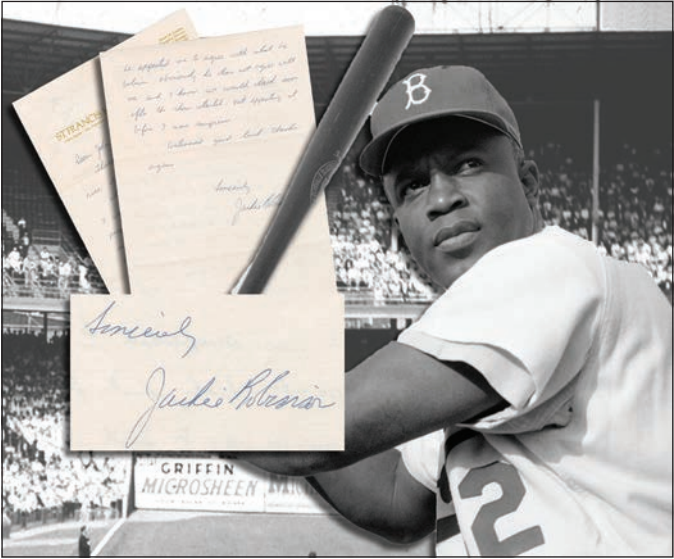

Benedikt Smidt who printed/published the work in 1674 had just moved to Amsterdam in 1673 and probably produced it as a showpiece to demonstrate his technical abilities. He succeeded in doing so and produced an impressive masterpiece which held the record for the smallest printed book for over 200 years. The price for this collector's item is $28,500.

For visitors who are interested in the Reformation there will be offered a first edition of one of Luther's polemical works called 'Von der winckelmesse und Pfaffen Weihe' published in 1533 by Nickel Schirlentz at Wittenberg. It contains one of the fiercest attacks on the Catholic Church, especially on the subject of the Mass, by Martin Luther, 1483-1546. The 'Winckelmesse' (Corner Mass) is a critique of both the Private Mass and the sacrament of ordination to the priesthood. The work is renowned for a vivid dialogue between Luther and the devil, inspired by an occasion when the devil spoke in his heart during the night. It starts with an introduction where Luther writes that he has been successful in doing away with indulgences and expresses the wish that God would do away with Mass and Ordination of Priests. Hereafter he writes about the visit of the devil speaking in his heart when he was awake in the night. The discussion between the Devil and Luther consists of eleven pages where the Devil sums up arguments against the Mass. This is followed by Luther's own reasons against the Mass. The title page is decorated with a large woodcut border depicting four biblical scenes derived from the story of Herod and John the Baptist in the characteristic design of the Cranach School, said to be engraved by Lucas Cranach himself. This very interesting work, containing Luther's celebrated discussion with the devil, has a price tag of $3,700.
