Take a rare glimpse into Wolfeboro's past and explore the contents of a remarkable Colonial-era home, filled with treasures uncovered from attics, cellars, barns, and outbuildings. This extraordinary event features heirlooms from the family names of Wiggan, Webster, Goodwin, and more, names instrumental in shaping America's oldest summer resort. These families were known not only for building many of the area's iconic cottages and landmarks but also for supplying the Lake Winnepesaukee community with meats, vegetables, honey, eggs, handwoven textiles made on the property, and their famed apple orchard harvests. Now, for the first time, the public is invited to acquire a piece of this legacy. From centuries and decades of home furnishings, décor, tools, and household wares, this is a rare opportunity to own original pieces that reflect the region's unique heritage.
