

Reckoning with Modernism

August Frederick Biehle

American, 1885-1979

Mill on the Canal, Zoar, Ohio, c. 1920,
Oil on canvas, 32 x 39 inches

WOLFS proudly presents the first major exhibition and sale of this important American Modernist's work.

“One of northeast Ohio’s most prolific and distinguished artists, August Biehle, Jr. (1885-1979) combined masterful draftsmanship with a superior sense of design. He assimilated aspects of German Expressionism, Fauvism, and Cubism, and moved skillfully between a range of styles, from Jugendstil (a German modernist style) to American Scene realism. He also displayed his versatility by mastering a variety of media and techniques, from graphite drawing to painting in oil, gouache, pastel, and tempera.”

William H. Robinson

Fire Tug on the Cuyahoga River, c. 1908-1910,
Oil on canvas, 36.5 x 34.5 inches

House in the Moor near Munich, 1912,
Gouache on paper laid on cardboard, 21 x 25 inches
